

Crying in H Mart: Michelle Zauner of Japanese Breakfast

Tuesday, September 7, 2021, at 6 p.m. PT
Live via Zoom
University of Southern California

WHAT TO KNOW

- Michelle Zauner is an author and musician who makes music under the name Japanese Breakfast.
- Her best-selling memoir, Crying in H Mart (2021), builds on her viral 2018 New Yorker essay and explores growing up Korean American, losing her mother to cancer, the relationship between food and identity, and forging her way as an artist.
- In this event, Zauner will read from her memoir and engage in conversation with USC professor Karen Tongson, who writes about pop culture (among many other things).

MICHELLE ZAUNER ON FOOD AND FAMILY

“In many ways, food was how my mother expressed her love. No matter how critical or cruel she seemed—constantly pushing me to be what she felt was the best version of myself—I could always feel her affection radiating from the lunches she packed and the meals she prepared for me just the way I liked them.”

“I wonder how many people at H Mart miss their families. How many are thinking of them as they bring their trays back from the different stalls. Whether they’re eating to feel connected, to celebrate these people through food.”

—excerpts from the essay “Crying in H Mart,” published in The New Yorker in 2018

MICHELLE ZAUNER ON GRIEF

“Sometimes my grief feels as though I’ve been left alone in a room with no doors.”—from the essay “Crying in H Mart”

FOR FURTHER REFLECTION

- ⦿ How do Michelle Zauner's creative practices as a writer and as a musician interrelate? How are they different?
- ⦿ What is the relationship between food and identity in your life?
- ⦿ How do gender roles affect Zauner's relationship with her mother? With food?
- ⦿ How has grief shaped Zauner's life and art?
- ⦿ What conflicts arise for Zauner around trying to be "normal" versus experiencing and doing things differently?
- ⦿ If you're from somewhere else, is there a place in L.A. that reminds you of home?
- ⦿ If you're from L.A., what stores would you miss the most if you moved somewhere else?
