Dudamel Conducts Messiaen's Turangalîla

Turangalîla-Symphonie is a massive 10-movement work by composer Olivier Messiaen (1908-1992), written between 1946 and 1948. It was commissioned by Serge Koussevitzky for the Boston Symphony Orchestra, and was the composer's first major international work. This was the largest of three works the composer wrote while he was immersed in the Tristan and Isolde legend. The piece is scored for symphony orchestra with an unusually large percussion section, and features the ondes martenot, an early electronic keyboard instrument, pictured here. A few other composers wrote for this instrument, but its popularity waned, and production of the instrument stopped in 1988. Recently, the ondes martenot has experienced a second life, as Johnny Greenwood of Radiohead began playing it extensively, along with its electronic cousin, the Theremin.

The Philharmonia Orchestra has an excellent listening guide for Turangalîla-Symphonie on their Messiaen website.
Dudamel Conducts the L.A. Philharmonic

This guide is designed to complement Visions & Voices events with the L.A. Philharmonic

Last Updated: Aug 19, 2011
URL: http://libguides.usc.edu/dudamel
Print Guide  Email Alerts

Event Information

Saturday, January 15, 2011
6:30pm - 11:00pm

This trip is for current USC students only. You must use the provided transportation to participate. Space is limited and advance registration is required. Due to limited space, tickets will be distributed on a lottery basis. To sign up for the lottery, click on the link above on Tuesday, December 7, between 7 a.m. and 2 p.m. Check-in for the event will begin at 5:45 p.m. on campus. Buses will depart at 6:30 p.m. and return to campus at 11 p.m. Dinner will be provided at check-in.

Comments (0)

Dudamel Conducts Mahler’s Ninth Symphony

From the L.A. Phil website:

Harboring the suspicion that there was a curse on composers who wrote a ninth symphony (Beethoven and Schubert were two that had died before their tenths were completed), Mahler attempted to sidestep the threat by not calling his ninth symphonic work a symphony at all. (This was his orchestral song cycle The Song of the Earth.) Only then did he feel safe to compose a ninth symphony, because it was “really” his tenth. Nonetheless, the curse struck again: Mahler died before he could finish No. 10.

Comments (0)

Gustav Mahler Blog

This is the blog created by the publisher Universal Edition for the Mahler anniversary years 2010-2011. Visit the site to view videos of classical superstars like Gustavo Dudamel, Pierre Boulez, and Daniel Barenboim discuss their relationships with the composer. In addition, there is information about Mahler performances around the world, recordings of his music, and links to websites on all things Mahler. Check it out!

- Claudio Abbado on Gustav Mahler
- Claudio Abbado Interview mit der FAZ
- Alan Gilbert on Gustav Mahler
- Video Streams from the Leipzig Mahler Festival
- 30,000 video views
- Gustav Mahler – 100 years after his death
- 100 years ago tomorrow
- In Search of Mahler
- Mahler Interview Transcripts Now Online
- Gustav Mahler at the Musée d’Orsay in Paris

View Website
View Feed

Comments (0)

Maazel and Mahler

To celebrate Lorin Maazel’s seven-year tenure as Music Director of the New York Philharmonic, 2002–2009, the complete Mahler symphonies - recorded live with Maazel conducting - are now available for free download! This set is exclusively digital and will not be released on CD.

- The Complete Mahler Symphonies: Live
  Follow along with the score! Mahler conducted his own first symphony in 1909, and the score he used has been digitized. This same score was used by Bruno Walter and Leonard Bernstein, and includes performance notes from both conductors.

Comments (0)
Research Guide for Dudamel Conducts Verdi’s Requiem

This research guide is designed to support the November 8th, 2009, Visions and Voices event, Dudamel Conducts Verdi’s Requiem

*This trip is for current USC students only. You must use the provided transportation to participate.

Check-in for the event will begin at 11:30 a.m. on campus. Buses will depart at 12:15 p.m. and return to campus at 5 p.m. Lunch will be provided. Please note that the event will include a pre-concert talk by Asadour Santourian, artistic advisor and administrator of the Aspen Music Festival and School, at the Walt Disney Concert Hall.

Gustavo Dudamel, the vibrant new music director for the Los Angeles Philharmonic, will conduct Verdi’s Requiem. Dudamel’s remarkable artistry and his unique ability to communicate and become one with an orchestra are only two of the characteristics that establish him as one of today’s leading figures in the music world. Join us in the spectacular Walt Disney Concert Hall as Dudamel conducts one of Verdi’s great works with the Los Angeles Master Chorale and featured artists Leah Crocetto, soprano; Ekaterina Gubanova, mezzo-soprano; Joseph Calleja, tenor; and John Relyea, bass. For further information on this event:
visionsandvoices@usc.edu

Comments (0)
Verdi, Requiem - Rosen, David, 1938-
Call Number: Music Library: ML410.V4R73 1995
ISBN: 0521397677

Verdi's Requiem is one of the most frequently performed works of the choral repertoire, and one of Verdi's most important nonoperatic works. In this new handbook, David Rosen discusses the work's composition and performance history, and analyzes each of the seven movements, considering Verdi's interpretation of the liturgical text, with reference to settings by Mozart and Cherubini. Rosen also considers the work's coherence and the controversial issue of its generic status--the degree to which it is "operatic."

Comments (0)
Dudamel Conducts the L.A. Philharmonic

This guide is designed to complement Visions & Voices events with the L.A. Philharmonic.
Gustavo Dudamel leads El Sistema's top youth orchestra

To learn more about Los Angeles' new conductor, browse his recordings, and view his performance schedule, visit his website.

Finding Videos in YouTube

- YouTube
  To find more videos about Gustavo Dudamel simply type in the phrase "Gustavo Dudamel" in the search box at the top of the page.

Interview with Gustavo Dudamel at the 2007 Proms

Comments (0)
Find Sound Recordings - Dudamel Conducts the L.A. Philharmonic - LibGuides at University of Southern California

Dudamel Conducts the L.A. Philharmonic

This guide is designed to complement Visions & Voices events with the L.A. Philharmonic

NPR's Exclusive First Listen

Listen to the entire album before it hits the music store!

- First Listen: Alvvays, 'Alvvays'
- First Listen: Joyce Manor, 'Never Hungover Again'
- First Listen: White Fence, 'For The Recently Found Innocent'
- First Listen: Slow Club, 'Complete Surrender'
- First Listen: Little Daylight, 'Hello Memory'

View Website
View Feed

Records at USC

Search Homer, the USC Libraries' catalog, for CDs and LPs of Verdi's music at USC. CDs are located in the Music Library and circulate for three days. LPs are located at Grand Avenue Library and can be paged through Homer.

Streaming Audio Services

- Music Online
  Music Online is the unified interface for all music databases from Alexander Street Press. These include: American Song, Classical Music Library, Contemporary World Music, and Jazz Music Library.

- DRAM: Database of Recorded American Music
  Independent record label-based service. Offers a variety of music, but is especially strong in 20th century and contemporary music.

- Naxos Music Library
  Comprehensive database for classical music, drawn mostly from the Naxos labels. All standard repertoire is represented.

- Naxos Music Library: Jazz
  Wide selection of classic and modern jazz recordings.

- Smithsonian Global Sound
  World music resource which grew from the Smithsonian Folkways recordings. Historic and contemporary releases are included.

Music Librarian

Stephanie Bonjack

Contact Info
USC Music Library
Doheny Memorial Library G18
(213) 740.2926
Send Email

Links:
Profile & Guides
Subjects:
Music

Powered by Springshare; All rights reserved. Report a tech support issue.
View this page in a format suitable for printers and screen-readers or mobile devices.

* Asterisk in guide title indicates core subject guide